the following are excerpts from a closed roundtable discussion that took place in october, 2001, entitled "hrt and serms: evidence-based data to guide patient management." dr thomas e exposing these cells to biomarkers from the person's tumour primes them to seek and destroy that particular cancer novelist scott turow says he's long been frustrated by the industry's failure to study its customer base