second, and most important, these women, as well as nursing mothers, should always see their health care professional if they suspect a yeast infection rather than self-treat.